

'Whether we live in a city or not, we are still in a landscape which stretches all the way out into the furthest reaches of the universe.' (Chris Welsby quoted in Payne et al., 2021, p. 173).

Thesis title:

Inside Here: dispersal as a strategy in landscape-based critical-documentarist art practice

The practice discussed in Chapter Four of the written thesis is shown in the following sections.

- | | | |
|------------|--|--|
| p. 3 - 6 | Part 1.1 | we all look at the same sky (2019)
Digital Video
Duration: 3min 22s

Site 1: Speaker's Corner, Hyde Park, London |
| p. 7 - 9 | Part 1.2 | water drawing (2019)
Digital Video
Duration: 5min

Site 2: Parliament Hill and Fields, London. |
| p. 10 - 18 | The images in this section exemplify the series of preliminary videos that were made while developing Part 1, Site 1 & 2, including a preliminary walking video, and the series of photographs that were made while developing the thinking around the frame discussed in Part 2. | |
| p. 19 - 21 | Part 2 | the sky is taught by falling (2023)
Digital Video
Duration: 15min 45s

This title includes:
35 mm black and white photographs (2023 - 2024)
Medium format black and white photography (2023 - 2024)
Grapite drawing on tape (2023)

Site 3: The Parkland Walk, North London |
| p. 22 - 35 | The images in this section exemplify the series of preliminary videos that were made while developing the practice discussed in Part 2, Site 3, including a preliminary upwards view walking video, and the two series of photographs that are discussed in Chapter Four. | |
| p. 36 - 38 | Online spaces, and Next steps for this research.
The practice instigated a collaborative approach in 2020 to develop an online platform. Subsequently, the role of an issue editor, for issues 1 and 2, was added to the role of a founding editor. The resultant academic online research journal itinerant space launched Issue 1: the pilot, in 2021 and published Issue 2: iterations in 2024.

A video from home is where the heart is , is discussed in the writing on next steps for this research in Chapter Five and can be found on itinerant-space.co.uk in Issue 2: iterations, at:

Spaces online and next steps for this research

Inside here by K M Bosy

This research progresses from (while not including) ‘Inside here by K M Bosy’, an artwork that is preliminary to this research. It aimed to bring Correspondence Art strategies into a relationship with the grid used in cartography (GPS). This artwork used smartphone native app technology to complicate the quality of representation (of the landscape) afforded by this technology. Inside here is an explorative work that was included in my research proposal and, as such, predates this research. It is a marker for where the research progresses from in the art practice more generally.

itinerant space academic journal

The practice instigated a collaborative approach in 2020 to develop an online platform. In a progression from the Correspondence Art strategy of image calls, itinerant space uses a keyword structure. Art and design research practice is published in the form of digital video and other time-based work, still images, and text. The journal was developed in 2020 and the pilot was launched in 2021.

vault, 2019 (Part 1 research exploration) was published on itinerant space during an experimental time for this journal. Subsequently, the role of an issue editor, for issues 1 and 2, was added to the role of a founding editor. The resultant academic research journal itinerant space published Issue 2: iterations in 2024.

Next steps for this research

The next steps for this research is discussed in Chapter Five in relation to the series of works titled: ‘home is where the heart is’ shown on the following page.
